

I did a term paper on the history of government media oversight and it is unsettling to see how much government oversight of the media has changed. The airwaves are public property, to the same extent that a national park is public property. The main consideration in regulating the airwaves should be the public interest. To allow a few media conglomerates the ability to control the print and broadcast media in a given market is not in the public interest. I oppose taking a vote that leads to more media consolidation. On June 2nd, I ask that you to retain the current ownership rules.
